Pulaski Day Observance

Polish Heroes Honored by City

Polish heros were honored by several hundred persons who attended the annual Pulaski Day Observance here Sunday afternoon at Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski Park.

In addition to paying tribute to the famed Revolutionary War cavalry officer who sacrificed his life and fortune in the cause of American freedom, speakers honored Col. Thaddeus Koscuiszko, another Revolutionary War hero who died Oct. 15, 1817, and scientist Madame Marie Skladowski-Curie, the discoverer of radium, whose 100th anniversary of birth will be observed Nov. 7.

Speakers on the program included Mayor Roland S. Vallee, who described what is being done in this country and Manchester today to give significance to persons like General Pulaski, who gave their lives for this country in the cause of freedom; State Rep. Robert Raiche of Manchester, who read a proclamation by Gov. John W. King; Lucien Szumski of Boston, state vice commander, Polish Army Veterans, and John Turczyn of Manchester.

A stirring recitation, "Savannah," in Polish by Cathy Berdechowski and solos by Dolores Kokoska of "Nie Rzucim" and "This Is My Country" as well as recitations by Zosia Marchwicz and Jan Gruczka, thrilled the audience. The youngsters were attired in colorful costumes.

World War I

An account was given of how in 1917-18 the Polish Army of 30,000 was organized in America. Full permission was given by the State and War Departments. In France they fought side by side with armies of the United States, France, Great Britain and Italy. Later this army crossed Germany into Poland and together with Polish compatriots liberated Poland from the Bolsheviks.

Three Manchester men, veterans of the Polish Army Veterans who helped Poland gain her freedom and helped stop the Bolsheviks from grabbing control of the country after World War I, were presented medals commemorating the 50th anniversay of the founding of the Polish Army in America, Two of the men, Joseph Dabek and John Lesniak were pinned during the ceremony by Drabinski while the third, Stanley Papuzenski, who is confined to his home at 427 Wilson St., received his medal later during a brief ceremony at his home.

Some 42 members of the Polish Army were recruited into the unit by Recruiting Sergeant Stanislaw Piaseczny, who in later years became active in Polish Civic affairs in this city and helped organize the project which resulted in Pulaski Park at the statue of General Pulaski becoming a reality.

Wreaths Placed

Wreaths were placed at the Pulaski statue by Mayor Vallee and Pulaski Day Committee President Walter Szopa. A volley was fired by the firing squad composed of members of the Polish Legion of American Veterans, led by Past Commander Stanley Bobinski.

Manchester Pays Tribute To Polish Patriot

Colorful Ceremonies Honor General Pulaski

By MAURICE McQUILLEN

The memory and ideals of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, the "Father of the American calvary," were saluted Sunday in elaborate and colorful ceremonies in the Manchester churches, and with a parade and a program in the park that bears his name.

The Polish nobleman sacrificed his fortune and his life in the cause of American freedom in the Reolutionary War. After two years of service in the Continnental Army with Gen. George Washington, Pulaski was killed at the age of 32 while leading a calvary charge against the British at Savannah, Ga.

Gov. John W. King led the salute to the Polish-American hero and his ideals which today are inspiring "American boys dying in defense of freedom we all love so dearly."

Lauds Polish People

"I know of no nationality whose citizens are more industrious, more devoted to their religion, and more liberty-loving than the Polish people," the governor declared, and quoted from his Millennium of Polish Christianity proclamation:

"Poland has given the world many leaders in many walks of life, such as Copericus in astronomy, Chopin in music, Kosciusko and Pulaski in the field of military endeavor, Sklodowska-Curie in chemistry, Sienkiewicz in literature, Paderewski in statesmanship, Cardinal Wyszynski in religion, Kiebura in opera, Styka in art, Michiewicz and Slowacki in poetry and thousands of others in almost every field of wordly endeavor."

Former Claremont Mayor Charles Puksta, representing U. S. Rep. James Cleveland, pointed out that between 900,000 and 1,000,000 Americans of Polish descent served in the armed forces in World War II. "Then, as now, they were true to the memory of the heroic Pulaski," he declared, quoting from Congressman Cleveland's prepared address:

"Because of his work, his life, his sacrifice, and those of other men like him, we can stand here today, free men, too. Let us resolve to defend what we have been given by men as Casimir Pulaski — even to the same sacrifice of life that he made."

Senator Speaks

U.S. Sen. Thomas McIntyre recalled the heroic deeds and untimely death 187 years ago of General Pulaski and declared:

"Americans of all ages must never forget the help this man gave to General Washington and his ill-equipped Continnental Army — of the food and supplies he gave that winter at Valley Forge."

U.S. Rep. J. Oliva Huot recalled that Pulaski fought the Russian domination of Poland and the British domination of America. Mayor Roland Vallee stressed that "thanks to men like General Pulaski we have the free soil we have today."

Masses in memory of General Pulaski at St. Hedwig parish, celebrated by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frederic R. Kaznocha, pastor, and Rt. Rev. Stanley T. Sypek of Boston, diocesan coordinator of the Millennium celebration, and at Holy Trinity Polish National Cathedral by Rt. Rev. Joseph Soltysiak marked the opening of the Pulaski Day observance.

Parade at Noon

A noon parade led by Polish American Veterans Comdr. Walter Szopa, the Pulaski Day chairman, and Governor King featured the John Gladys marching band, marching delegations from all the Polish-American organizations in the city, many in native Polish costumes and the school children of St. Casimir School and Holy Trinity Church, wearing colorful costumes of Poland.

The invocation and benediction at Pulaski Park were by Rev. Thaddeus Kozieja, pastor of Holy Trinity Cathedral. The Polish and American national anthems were sung by Miss Matilda M. Bykowski. Former Assistant Atty. Gen. Alexander Kalinski spoke briefly, and a telegram of tribute to Pulaski

15-Polish American Units Here Honor Gen. Pulaski's Patriotism

By MAURICE McQUILLEN

Father of the American Cavalry, the memory and ideals of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski were saluted Sunday during the 24th annual local observance of Pulaski Day.

A wealthy Polish nobleman, Pulaski sacrificed his personal fortune and his very life for the cause of freedom in the American Revolution 183 years ago. At the age of 32, he was killed in action on Oct. 11, 1779 leading a cavalry charge against the British at Savannah.

The local observance was highlighted by a parade led by the Manchester Boys' Club Drum and Bugle Corps and exercises in Pulaski Park in front of the heroic size equestrian statue of the Polish-American hero. Fifteen Polish-American organizations participated.

His Ideals Live On

"From beyond the grave, this hero's aid in defending our freedoms and emphasizing the compatibility of Polish and American Democratic ideals will be carried on in the future. A nuclear-powered Polaris submarine is to be named for General Casimir Pulaski," Mrs. Stella (Pinska) Keene of Buffalo, N. Y., told the gathering.

The former Manchester resident was a prime mover in the effort to get the U. S. Senate and Congress to adopt House Joint Resolution 282 to name a nuclear-powered submarine for General Pulaski.

Mayor John C. Mongan, who together with Chairman Walter Szopa of the Pulaski Day committee laid the wreath at the Pulaski monument, joined in saluting the Polish-American hero and all the ideals he fostered. Mayor Mongan described yesterday's program as "deep appreciation for history and pride in our country" as he denounced the deemphasis on history in our schools and the emphasis on social subjects.

Asks Spirit Revival

He was accompanied by his wife, daughter, Kathleen, and son, Michael, as he paid tribute to Pulaski, the heroes of the 1939 siege of Warsaw and called for a modern revival of that spirit. He contrasted the old time U. S. attitude in dealing with pirates and "the present-day wishy-washy stand on Cuba."

State Director of Employment Security Benjamin Adams of Derry represented Gov. Wesley Powell. Henry Karwacki of the State Board of Education read Governor Powell's Pulaski Day Proclamation. Rt. Rev. Joseph Soltysiak, Bishop of Eastern Diocese of the Polish National Catholic Church, gave by Capt. Frank Piecuch included Joseph Berdechowski, Charles Marszalek, Thomas Poltak, Eugene Golabesky, William Sharek, Stanley Czaja and Eugene Buczynski.

State Director of Employment Security Benjamin Adams of Derry represented Gov. Wesley Powell. Henry Karwacki of the State Board of Education read Governor Powell's Pulaski Day Proclamation. Rt. Rev. Joseph Soltysiak, Bishop of Eastern Diocese of the Polish National Catholic Church, gave the prayer.

A modern Polish-American hero addressed the gathering on the meaning of Pulaski Day in his native tongue. John Turczyn was a political prisoner in Poland at the outset of World War II. Arrested by the Gestapo, he was thrown into a concentration camp until liberated by the Americans when they entered Austria. Then he joined the Polish Army Corps under the British and Americans. In 1951 a cherished dream was realized when he was brought to America under sponsorship of American veterans. He is now a citizen and resides in Manchester.

Little girls attired in traditional Polish costume and representing the various Polish-American organizations here in the city assisted in the wreath-laying ceremony. Volleys were fired by a firing squad composed of members of the Polish Legion of American Veterans and St. Hedwig Post 1341, Catholic War Veterans. Taps were sounded by Bugler Frank Mroz.

Masses, Parade and Statue Ceremony

Pulaski Day Exercises Set Here Sunday

Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, father of the U. S. Cavalry, will be remembered here this weekend with a dance, parade and traditional Pulaski Day exercises in front of his equestrian statue in Pulaski Park.

A wealthy Polish nobleman, General Pulaski espoused the cause of freedom in the American Revolutionary War, giving his all—his talented military service, fortune and his very life. General Pulaski was fatally wounded at the age of 32 while leading a cavalry charge in the Battle of Savannah.

Saturday evening, festivities begin with a dance at the Pulaski Club on Manchester Street. Music will be furnished by Johnny Prytko and his Connecticut Hi-Tones orchestra.

Masses Scheduled

Memorial masses at St. Hedwig and Holy Trinity churches on Sunday morning will open the day long program.

Participants in the traditional, colorful Pulaski Day Parade will assemble at noon on Manchester Street between Chestnut and Union. The parade will step off at 12:30 o'clock to the music of the John Gladysz Marching Band, swinging north on Chestnut Street to Bridge Street and then east to Pulaski Park where exercises are scheduled for one o'clock.

The Pulaski Day Committee is made up of representatives of all local Polish-American organizations and clubs. Polish Legion of American Veterans Comdr. Walter Szopa is president of the committee which has been meeting weekly for the past two months, lining up the elaborate patriotic program.

Invited guests include: U.S. Senators Norris Cotton, Thomas McIntyre, and Edmund Muskie, U. S. Rep. James Cleveland and Louis Wyman, Gov. John W. King, and Mayor John C. Mongan.

Main speaker will be Dr. Vincent J. Capowski, professor of history and assistant dean at St. Anselm College. Featured Polish speaker will be the well known John Turczyn, who fought Nazis and Communists in World War II as a freedom fighter and served with U. S. Army forces.

Recitations will be given by school children from St. Casimir School of St. Hedwig Parish and Holy Trinity Parish School. Attired in traditional costumes of Poland of yesteryear, the school children will march in the parade.

The Pulaski Day Celebration Committee includes: Walter Szopa, president; Mrs. Genevieve McLoskey, first vice president; Stanley Lacheta, second vice president; Mrs. Henrietta Peltak, secretary; Mrs. Edna Bobinski, assistant secretary; Mrs. Irene Kramasz, treasurer, and Frank Piecuch, parade marshal.

Representatives of the clubs and their auxiliaries include: TTK Club, Frank Zabratowski and Mrs. Julia Golabesky; Pulaski Club, Walter Gorski and Mrs. Helen Dziura; Polish American Citizens Club, Joseph Mroz and Mrs. Mary Raczka; Casimir Club, Vincent Klocek and Mrs. Estelle Johnson; Polish Fish and Game Club, John Piecuch; Polish Legion of American Veterans, Comdr. Walter Szopa and President Mrs. Henrietta Peltak, and St. Hedwig Post 1341, Catholic War Veterans, Comdr. Stanley Lacheta and President Mrs. Catherine Malik.

The parade will be cancelled only in case of heavy, steady rain. In such case, the speaking program would be held in the TTK Hall on Chestnut Street at 1 o'clock, Pulaski Day Chairman Szopa said.

Father of the U. S. Cavalry, Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski's memory and ideals were saluted Sunday in traditional Pulaski Day program—church services, a colorful parade and exercises in front of his equestrian statue in the Manchester park that bears his name.

Friday, Oct. 11, marked the 189th anniversary of the death of the Polish-American hero who espoused the cause of freedom in the American Revolutionary War, giving his all, his talented military service, fortune, and his very life.

Pulaski, a wealthy Polish nobleman, the eldest son of Count Joseph Pulaski, met Benjamin Franklin in Paris, was sold on the cause of American freedom. He was given a letter of introduction to George Washington.

General Pulaski, who distinguished himself in the Battle of Brandywine, was commissioned a brigadier general by Congress and given command of the entire American cavalry, which he organized and trained.

General Pulaski led his men for two years before being struck down during the siege of Savannah while leading the cavalry charge on Oct. 9. He died at the age of 31.

Guidelines for U. S.

Dr. Vincent Capowski, professor of history and assistant dean at St. Anselm College, recounted Pulaski's proud and brilliant but short-lived career during the speaking program in Pulaski Park. He said Pulaski's dying words give Americans today, in troubled times, the guidelines to see them through.

"Follow my lancers to whom I have given my order of attack," was Pulaski's final admonishment, the St. Anselm professor stressed. "He represents the much needed will to win and refusal to give up when the going is tough and uncertain."

U. S. Rep. Louis C. Wyman told the gathering, "We could all do well to remember General Pulaski's words: 'Whenever on the globe men are fighting for liberty it is as if it were our own affair.' . . . We, here in the United States, must urge the development of a foreign policy that will help restore freedom to all countries under Communist control.

"In the long run, such a policy is the best way to insure continued freedom from aggression upon America itself."

Masses at St. Hedwig and Holy Trinity Churches Sunday morning opened the day long program saluting General Pulaski. Saturday night a social program was held at the Pulaski Club.

Colorful Parade

Many Queen City residents not of Polish background but deeply aware of all that Pulaski did for this country in its troubled early days joined in the salute.
